Group air reservations have many benefits for your team including:

- Save everyone on the team money

Individual air rates are affected by availability. In other words, when inventory decreases, price goes up. Negotiated group airfare distributes costs evenly across the team, saving money for all team members.

- Allow you to travel as a team

Group air allows teams to travel as one group, promoting team unity and saving time that can be allocated for team practices and meetings. Travel as a group also makes ground transportation movements easier for your team.

- Create flexibility

Depending upon your airline, teams may be able to make name changes, change return flights and ticket closer to your departure date. Individual air reservations do not allow this flexibility.
